THE SILVER CLESTION

There is no reason why the people on this coast should have any pecular interest in silver is money, different from that of people in the eastern states. However the Cleveland administration may yet turn out, its first two months have established one thing beyond dispute, that the elevation of Mr. Bayard to the head of the state department was a deplorable blunder. This man had enjoyed a renownfallogether disproportion ate to his capabilities. It was the result of uniting purificially on the part of free-trade journals, who, on general principles, praise any one who expresses himself, boweyer dull in phrase, against the "robber tartiff" as a great and wise stateman. It is doubtful whether any other prominent democratic ould have documented such awful meanacity in the selection of the disjonator representatives of the countres. Bayard did. Among his appointments of ministers there is really but a single one entirely proper, and, therefore, approved by friend and foe, that of Pendiston. All the ofters are more or less mischlevous blunders.

proper, and, therefore, approved by friend and foe, that of Pendleton. All the others are more or less mischlevous blunders.

How miscrably he has acted toward the terman democrats they can tell best. Lincoln appointed three Germans as ministers. Bayard has not thought a single German worthy of the honor. In his aversion to their he has even disregarded all party usage. According to this usage P. Deuster, who was three times elect ed to congress from a republican district, had an undealable claim to an appointment assiminater. Besides him a secretary of state, desirous of recognizing the terman democrats, would have offered diplomatic posts to such prominent men as Ottendorfer and Stalls, no matter whether they had indicated any desire for them or not. Had they refused them it would have been a least a graceful compinent. But perish the thought. Three consul generalships have been awarded to the Germans—the poorly appointed one at Vienna that of Berlin and that of Frank fort in the-Main.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mongolian Samarians.—A Front street merchant who does not like the Chinese saw something yesterday which made him feel more kindly toward the race. A woman peddler of vegetables had the misfortune to disable har wagon in front of his house yesteriay morning. A number of people passed, but paid no attention to her distress at the mishap. Presently a chinese vegetables windor came along an I seeing that his rival in businesswas in trouble put down his heavy lankets and went to he assistance. Soon a number of other Chinese vegetable men came along and he called on them to ussist and these Chinamen, about a dozen in number, spent two hours lifting and pulling and hauling and hauling, and hauling, when they succeeded in repairing the damage so that the woman was enabled to drive off. Then they took up the burder of their lives and trotted off to market. (ming down town the merchant was accosted by a Chinaman who said he was "neep hungty, and is looked like if. The merchant, who says he never saw or heard of a chinaman begging for food before, remembering the kindness displayed by the vegetable man, gave the beggar a quarter and he at once started for a restaurant It has been common enough at times within the past year in see white men begging for money to get a mea!, but it is almost certain that the above is the first instance on record of a Chinaman doing so here. It is to be hoped that they will not adopt the style.

man doing so here. It is to be hoped that they will not adopt the style.

MYSTERY SOLVED—On Sunday in running says the Astorian, William Chance and William Cimbon, while passing down a gulch on the other side of West Eighth street toward Young's river, found a part of what was once a human body lying in the brush, the rank vegetation growing over it and almost entirely concealing it. They immediately notified the coroner, and yesterday morning an inquest was held on the remains, which chiefled the fact that they were those of Robert Vincent, who mysteriously disappeared on the 20th of January, 1884, and whose fate has until now here wrapped in mystery. The last seen of that unfortunate man was on the evening of that day. A bundle of papers marked with his name, and an empty demiljohn, were found alongside the body. At the inquest witcesses identified various urticles found with the body as having belonged to Vincent. He had a runch on Young's river, where he had lived alone for the past seven years. He was a native of England, about 40 years old, and a widower. He frequently spoke of two sons—one on the London police force and the other keeping a pholograph gallery in that city. It was very cold the night he disappeared and he

THINK THEY HAVE THE BURGIAN -- It is no longer a secret that the police believe they have taken the town burglar in out of harm's way, longer a secret that the police believe they have taken the town burglar in out of harm's way, and now have him safely behind the bars, al though they themselves have been as close as an oyster, whenever questioned about the matter. These are the reasons they have for thinking they now enjoy alone the society of the far-famed midnight visitor at so many mansions in this city. The last burglary was on Friday night, and the next day an ex-convict who now goes by he name of Cy Cain was arrested as a vagrant. Since that time thers have been no burglaries, no more midnight grapplings with a dimly seen, eventually escaping form Johnny Lewis has visted him in his ceil and feels certain he is the man with whom he had the midnight encounter in the hallway of his father's house. The hat which remains as a souvent of that struggle has been tried upon this man's head and fits him to a dot His description likewise tallies with that given by Mrs. Dekum of the man she saw prowling about the night before their residence was entered. So, while there are no positive facts that will dentify the vagrant as the burglar, yet he has all the credit of it, and the people on Moh Hill are congratulating themselves upon future immunity as victures of the bousebreaker.

STILL TINKERING WITH THE LEASE.—A New York special of the 21st sevs "Resolutions were adopted by the Northern Pacific directors York special of the 21st seys "Resolutions were adopted by the Northsern Pacific directors to-day which were considered favorable to the jumit lease with the Tuno Pacific of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Officers of the North ern Pacific pegarded the action of the board as the completion of the lease, but the Oregon Railway and Navigation officers said that the resolutions were accompanied by such conditions that made them really of no consequence. The lease might be made at any time if the conditions apparently imposed by the Northern Pacific board agree with those of the Union Pacific, as they were supposed to do it is understood that the lawyers on both sides have devised a plan by which the joint lease may be legally made. When it became known here that the report, received about six weeks ago, that the OR L N had been leased to the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific was based on the fact that a tripartite conference was in session, the impression prevailed that negotiations would in the end fall through. Here is the problem which any one can answer for himself. If it took one rairoad company—the Northern Pacific—one year and three months to find cut whether or not they wanted to lease the OR. & N road, how long will it take two companies to arrive at the same information?

IMPROVING THE PLAZAS.—The appearance of IMPROVING THE PLAZAS.—The appearance of the plaza blocks is much improved by the removal of the old fences which formerly surrounded them. The grass is being cut on one of the blocks, which is another decided improvement, and there is talk of having them seeded to white clover, as the sward is rather ragged at present. The only objection to the removal of the fences was the probability of country people driving their wagons upon the blocks or parties taking horses on there to eat grass. One livery man was seen batting a horse there a day or two since, and a contractor drove his team on one of the blocks and left it standing under the trees Deputy Poundinaster Wilmer coming along took charge of the outht and was driving it off to jail when the owner came running after him, and finally by means of a good deal of explanality and expostulation, succeeded in reguning and finally by means of a good deal of evplana it n and expostulation, succeeded in reginning is property. People treepassing or the plazas will be promptly arrested, and an effort will be nade to keep these blocks in better order than heretotype. I ID NOT SPARE HIM -The mother in law as

I ID NOT SPARE HIM—The mother in law as a subject for jokes has been untired till there are but few funny things to be sail about this much abused but indispensable relation of all well regulated families. A pioneer banker of the city has however succeeded in getting up next joke in this time. One of his sons, who was expecting a visit from his wife's mother, accidentally hlackel' his ever by running against a door in the dark. In consequence he was unable to accompany his wife and her mother to thurch on Sunday. After service Mrs. Lintroduced her mother to her husband's father, who in jured stakeously where his son was. Mrs. I replied that he was at home with a black eye. The auxhous father who knew all about the eye but who loves usly joke, exclaimed. THE CHEW E IAH MINES. -E. J Jeffery arrived home this week from the Chew-s-lah min og district in Washington territory, where he made some investments last fall. As yet the development has been confined to prispecting by men comparatively poor, but enough has been done to show that the entire district is rich in high grade silver bearing ores. Two manufacturers with capital visited the mines last week to ascertain whether it would probably pay to put in a smelter, and they were very favorably impressed with the prospects. It is estimated that $20,000 will establish a smelter. The best feature of the nunes is that they are accessible being call two index from the Coville road, and less than lifty miles from Spokane kalls. A wajon road can be built from the main road to every mine so far prospected at very slight cost. SOME AGRICULTURAL QUESTIONS

To the Editor of Tile Orrogovian
I wish to inquire through the medium of your paper, in regard to the following matters
What kind of heafy does the best on the dry plains east of the Cascades, and what is the cost plains east of the Cascades, and which can be considered any trees hat will grow in Wasco county that rabbits will not eat?

Will sattpetre jut on grass burt sheep or STRANGER. perhaps, can answer these questions. The last peringis, can answer these questions. The last two probably anyone can answer. As there are many trees in Wasco countr, it is evident that these trees can successfully resist the attacks of what rabbits there are in Wasco country now As to the sultpetre, it is impossible to imagine what one would wish to put saltpetre on grass for, and it is not likely that cattle or sheep would est grass if there was enough saltpetre on it to hurt them. If they could be forced to est grass heavily sprinkled with the drug, it would be un wholesome for them
